AXMAN INVADES MALL

Rare Old Trees Cut Down on Site of National Museum.

MANY IMPORTED FROM ABROAD

In making ready for the new National Historical Society building, a great many of the large and venerable trees which have been growing for years in and around the Federal building and the Smithsonian Institution have of necessity been cut down. This is particularly true in the vicinity of the old Smithsonian Institution building, where the new building is to be erected. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great skill and care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great skill and care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great skill and care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.

The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The cutting of these trees has been done with great care and with a view to the least possible damage to the buildings. Many of the trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care. The trees were cut down near the Smithsonian Institution building, and the work was done with great care.